Informative and insightful session

It was really a very nice experience

Nicely conducted and organized

Lastly we lost connection and was unable to listen Formal Validictory Session.

I thank B.C.College for arranging such an interesting and wonderful webinar.

Very informative E- Workshop..

Overall explanation and theory set my mind to unic way. How I can learn from nature. Brief discussion about photo voltic cell apply and modified in our life or source of energy to apply daily life and ion beam modification energy harvesting and helium ion microscope used. It is very helpful our next time.

Overall it well organised and all the technical detail provided here will help to improve the knowledge.

Most talks were technical but as the title of the workshop was of career outreach so all technical doubts by participants were not responded and question-answer session was too short to be satisfied

Really impressed and satisfied by such an informative workshop but it would be more convenient if the presented technical content could be explained more clearly.

Thank you for arranging such effective webinar.

E-WORKSHOP ON INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY RIGHTS

19th August 2020,

Initiated by IQAC, Bidhan Chandra College, Asansol, West Bengal, India

E-WORKSHOP ON INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY RIGHTS

This itinerary, by IQAC, Bidhan Chandra College, Asansol, West Bengal, India, is intended to promote 'Research to Enterprise', and has been developed especially for college and university students and faculties, university spin-offs, research centres and similar organisations. Intellectual Property Rights (IPR) plays a vital role as innovation is a new driver, enhancing the socio-economic prosperity of the country in this era of globalization. Hence, there is a need to create large public awareness about IPR issues like Patents, Copyrights, Trademarks, etc. This E-workshop is a step towards proper understanding and realization of IPR. The program will consist of Keynote talks by two eminent speakers in the IPR field, followed by interactive sessions, where the participants may interact with the speaker for a better grip on the topics. We intend to follow up with similar programs for further academic enrichment in near future.

Good initiative
Today's session was very helpful for us..We acquired sound knowledge about IPR..How Trade Secrets,Patents, Copy rights and Trade marks are necessary to protect human creativity and invention..How Research ideas proposals and thesis can be protected by IPR..What are the fields where IPR is not required..In short These two phases are too much beneficial for our future academic purposes.. A great thanks to Dr Debabrata Samanta for his valuable and excellent effort.. Thanks to all faculty members and Honourable Principal Sir of B.C College Asansol.

Chemistry as a discipline is now undergoing a process of rediscovering itself, making several forays into new vistas of knowledge. It has embraced various emerging branches starting from spectroscopy to supramolecular chemistry, green chemistry, cluster chemistry, polymer chemistry, nuclear chemistry, and so on, with the list never ending and pivoting the subject to new levels of excellence and enrichment. In this webinar our endeavour would be strictly focused to bring forward some of the advances incurred in some of the traditional as well as the non-traditional branches of the subject.

Our goal is to enlighten students/ academicians in the new horizons of chemistry through the vision of our respected speakers. We are still fighting the Corona Pandemic throughout the world. We are trying to engage our beloved students by organizing such academic endeavours. We had with us

WEBINAR SUMMARY

Since 2020 we are in covid 19 pandemic era and facing a massive socio economic crisis as an impact of that pandemic. The detrimental effects of environmental pollution and global climate change along with the augmented increase in human population and decrease in arable land have put a substantial impact on agriculture and thus, emphasis has now been given towards ensuring long-term food supply and security for a sustainable future.

Raising some awareness, we had chosen our webinar title – “ CURRENT PROGRESS IN PLANT BIOLOGY : IMPLICATIONS TOWARDS CROP IMPROVEMENT.”

We were honoured to have our esteemed speakers with us.

Our first keynote speaker was Prof. Narayan Chandra Mandal , Professor & H.O.D., Department of Botany, Siksha-Bhavana, Visva-Bharati, Santiniketan.

Our second speaker was Dr. Sanjeev Pandey Associate Professor & H.O.D., Department of Botany, Banwarilal Bhalotia College, Asansol.

Mr. Uday Shankar Ray was our third speaker , Assistant Botanist, WBAS (Research), Zonal Drought Resistant Paddy Research Station, Hathwara, Purulia.

And our fourth speaker was Dr. Krishnendu Pramanik, UGC-Dr. D.S.Kothari Postdoctoral Fellow, Department of Botany, Siksha-Bhavana, Visva-Bharati, Santiniketan

Our Principal sir Dr. Falguni Mukhopadhyay, who is the patron in chief in this webinar

With increased industrialization in residential areas, different materials including heavy metals are discharged into effluent water, which pollute the agricultural lands. Besides this, during random natural calamities the lands present in the vicinity of sea, facing problems of salinity stress, and there are much more problems like that. Along with these, different biotic stress factors including insects and fungal pathogens cause various diseases in field crop and reduce yield of the plants. Among various pathogens, the fungal diseases are more destructive than the diseases caused by other pathogens. As the crop plants are experiencing constant threats from various abiotic and biotic stress factors, a vital route toward maintaining food security is the development of stress-resilient crops. The integration of plant associated beneficial microorganisms may represent a promising solution to develop resistance against various stress factors and improve the agricultural production. Furthermore, different fungi also spoil stored foods, imposing new food-preservation challenges and thus various strategies are now evolving to manage and control these fungi. Our speaker Dr. Krishnendu Pramanik kept his view on the abiotic stress factors and the possible ways to overcome the stress during crop improvement. On the other hand senior Professor Dr. N. C Mandal mainly focused on the biotic factors, the fungal pathogen, the storage process of the crop plants etc.

Conventional plant breeding has been going on for hundreds of years, and is still commonly used today for developing better quality crops with improved traits including higher yield, abiotic stress tolerance and insecticide and pesticide resistance. Our speaker Mr. U.S Ray mainly elaborated the conventional plant breeding methods in the webinar. Although the above mentioned methods were going well ,our demand somehow were not fulfilled on the basis of high yield or quality. So, in past few decades, research is mainly focused on developing various genetic manipulation techniques during crop improvement. So new plant breeding technologies have recently emerged as alternative approaches to speed up the introduction of improved traits. These technologies include precision genome-modification platforms such as CRISPR/Cas and TALEN methodologies. The CRISPR-Cas9 system is a plant breeding innovation that uses site-directed nucleases to target and modify DNA with great accuracy. Developed in 2012 by scientists from the University of California, Berkeley, CRISPR-Cas9 has received a lot of attention in recent years due to its range of applications, including biological research, breeding and development of agricultural crops. Our esteemed speaker Dr. Sanjeev Pandey delivered his talk on that particular CRISPR-Cas9 system.

Food security is now a big question to the future generation, and our webinar title is a burning issue, so after the lectures and the respective interactive session our students, teachers and other members present at the webinar were very much benefited and enlightened.
